PANAMA CANAL DEFENSES WEAK; PLANES NEEDED

Submarine Base in Pacific Urged.

BY JOSEPH PIERSON.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune.)
COLON, Jan. 6.—The military and naval authorities here point out three serious mistakes in the local defensive arrangements of the Panama canal, irrespective of the problems of equipment.

Aviation and submarines are the bases for the defense of the whole canal on the Atlantic side. The submarine base is so close to open water that it does not appear a difficult feat to throw several ash cans of high explosive across the low, narrow strip of land into the heart of the submarine docks and settlement. France field, the headquarters of the air force, is only a few hundred yards away. There is a protection of mine fields and land forts, but a fog would keep the land forts ineffective, while a vessel could throw several broadsides into these vital defenses. If the canal were put out of commission on the Pacific side there would be no submarines and none could be obtained.

Landing Field a Swamp.

France field also is located in the middle of a swamp. The landing grounds are filled in. In the rainy season not much can be done with the surplus water. Some money is being expended to fill in more of the swamp. This will probably enable the field to accommodate another squadron of planes. Not much more solid ground can be added to the field, certainly not enough for the proper complement of planes. The field is poor and its strategic position is dangerous. It is fifty miles from the Pacific and the field is accessible only by a narrow strip of land. Hostile air fleets from Balboa could raid the spillways and locks between Gatun lake and the Pacific before the American aviators could reach them.

Submarine Base Needed.

An advance submarine base seems advisable on the Pacific side. It should provide adequate barracks and docks for a dozen submarines, with an emergency store of spare parts for emergency repairs to be made at the main base at Cristobal.

The third serious error concerns the armament and armorymen, on whom the air and submarine forces are depending. The final responsibility for the defense of the canal falls on Gatun lock. More than half are in ancient barracks, fast falling down. Some of these barracks were built hurriedly thirty or forty years ago for canal workers. One large, shabby building menaces the many occupants. Although concrete is a well recognized material for the housing of men and storage of supplies, two-thirds of the men and all the supplies of the military forces on the canal are housed in tinder boxes which one good fire would wipe out in a few hours.

Only Three Squadrons.

There are now only three squadrons of airplanes in the Panama Canal Zone. These planes are of no later model than 1920. Some more modern planes are expected this month, probably another squadron of pursuit planes. But five squadrons of pursuit planes are required for the defense of the canal from the mildest sort of raid on the locks and spillways, and these planes need to be renewed at least at the rate of one squad a year with the very latest types from time to time developed. Pursuit planes are most essential in the air force for the protection of the canal.

Also, three squadrons of bombers are needed, with renewals from time to time. Three squadrons of observation planes also are needed. These planes are essential for the perfect control of fire from the forts, besides the usual function of patrolling the sea and approaches.

The Panama canal is continually overhung with clouds at various levels throughout the year. This is the dry season and little rain has fallen for a month, but the air is heavy with clouds at least two days out of six on the Cristobal side, which enjoys a steady breeze.

WAITING TO CROSS

FOUR HURT AS TRAINS COLLIDE AT STEWART AVE.

A Baltimore and Ohio train crashed into a Western Indiana train last night at the crossing near 50th street and Stewart avenues. Only four persons, two mail clerks, a freeman, and an engineer, were injured and they only slightly.

The Western Indiana engine was overturned and the mail car of the B. & O. train was derailed. It plowed through the shanty in which there were three persons who were uninjured. According to the report received by Sgt. Harry Smale, the B. & O. train, eastbound, had the right of way, but the other train, which was northbound and carried no passengers, reached the crossing first. The flagman, E. R. Wilkins, 7417 Peoria street, said the north bound train had no headlight.

The injured mail clerks were L. E. Rupert, 440 East Main street, Albion, Ind., and Stanley Day, 95 Clinton avenue, James B. Manes, 5325 Wentworth avenue, engineer, and Albert Grabe, 3782 South Ashland avenue, fireman, both on the W. I. engine, received bruises and scratches.

ROB CHICAGO TRAIN; AMOUNT KEPT SECRET

Chicago and Northwestern railroad officials last night admitted that a sealed parcel post car on train No. 12 from Omaha to Chicago had been entered Monday night by thieves who escaped with loot of undetermined value. Postal inspectors, working in secrecy for twenty-four hours, last night reported they expect to have the burglars arrested in a few days.

Their theory is that an organized band, acquainted with movements of valuable parcel post mail, has obtained keys used to lock the cars and their strong boxes. The sealed cars are sent out without guard.

Evanston's Fire Reserve Called Out Early Today

At 1 o'clock this morning Evanston's police department was arousing some twenty members of the fire department's reserve. The reserve was summoned to fight a stubborn blaze which threatened to destroy a brick building at 1817-23 Chicago avenue. The building is occupied by the R. L. Leffingwell company, the Main Street Gift shop, and the Evanston Food shop. Above the store lived four families. They were driven to the street by the fire and were taken to hotels for temporary lodging.

Cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

WAR MEMORIAL FOR S. WATER ST.

Citizens Raise Fund for 200-Foot Shaft.

As a memorial to all the soldiers of the nation's wars, a monument to patriotism, a great stone shaft is to soar high above the new South Water street improvement, according to plans announced yesterday.

A fund subscribed through the efforts of a group of prominent citizens will pay for the monument. The shaft will rise 200 feet, cost $200,000, and be surrounded by the boulevards of the great river improvement.

The column will face the Michigan Link bridge, being situated a block away where Wabash avenue, River street, and East South Water street now intersect. Original plans contemplated the building there of a huge safety island, 90 feet across at its widest point and 200 feet long.

Indorsed by Sloan.

Recognizing the possibilities of the site for a war memorial, a group of Chicagoans suggested the project to John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements, who has given it his enthusiastic indorsement.

Among the men who form a committee which agree to raise the cost of the memorial are Milton J. Foreman, John V. Clinlin, Abel Davis, A. Sprague, Roy D. Keen, Thomas R. Gowerlock, Julius Rosenwald, Robert R. McCormick, Joseph M. Patterson, B. A. Eckhart, Harrison E. Riley, James E. Stuart, George M. Moulton, George V. Lauman, M. L. C. Funkhauser, Taylor E. Brown, John W. McConnell, Archibald MacLellan, and Charles T. Wilt.

Many of those named are veterans of the world war, some of the Spanish-American war, and several of the civil war.

"Spirit of Sacrifice."

"We believe that a memorial should be erected commemorative of the spirit of sacrifice exhibited by the soldiers of this country throughout its history," the citizens wrote in a letter to Mr. Sloan.

"This spirit alone has made the development of our country possible and by its perpetuation we may ever hope for our nation's future."

It will be necessary, it was pointed out, for the city council to pass an ordinance dedicating the property for

CHAPLIN'S BRIDE IS ANTICIPATING STORK, SHE SAYS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—Mrs. Charlie Chaplin, 14, today was contemplating the proper name for a new baby she says she expects this summer.

The little wife of the famous film comedian made the announcement to a reporter of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE this afternoon, while Mrs. Lillian Curry-Spicer, her mother, nodded acquiescence.

"Of course, it's too early to be definite about anything yet," Mrs. Chaplin said, "but I believe the time will be this summer."

Both the wife and her mother voiced denials that Lita and Chaplin are separated, or intend to be.

"That is positively untrue," said Lita. "Charlie comes home every night."

SCHOLES, WET, G. O. P. CHOICE FOR SPEAKER

Deneen Votes Put Over Victor.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—(Special.)—Gov. Small tonight put over his first choice for speaker of the Fifty-fourth general assembly—Robert Scholes of Peoria, a "wet."

He accomplished this victory by a last minute concentration of Deneen votes which went to Scholes on orders from Chicago.

This was a complete victory, but in the organization of the senate the governor was blocked by the autonomy group, headed by Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet. Barr was named president pro tem. Senator Frederick B. Rice was elected chairman of the caucus and the indications were that Senator Harry G. Wright of De Kalb eventually would be the choice for chairman of the appropriations committee of the upper house.

The results of the Republican senate caucus had been accurately estimated in advance, but there was uncertainty concerning the house situation until late in the afternoon, when it became known that members aligned with the Deneen faction were receiving instructions to vote for Scholes on the first ballot.

"Put Scholes Over," Order.

Representatives who had given their promises to other candidates went to the caucus and told them the orders were for Scholes.

It developed further that this Deneen support was the ace in the hole on which Small lieutenants had been banking their confidence of Scholes' selection. Two of the men closely identified with the governor's planning indicated that this strength had been in reserve for several days, subject to call when needed.

Scholes on the first ballot received 58 votes, eleven more than a majority of the ninety-three present. Four other names were placed in nomination. On the only ballot taken William F. Weiss, Waukegan, and Norman G. Plag of Moline were tied for second place with 12 votes each. A Otis Arnold, the governor's second choice until he determined to concentrate on Scholes, received 9 votes. Ralph E. Church of Evanston received 2.

How to Anti-Saloons.

Just as much as it was a victory for Gov. Small, the Scholes selection was a defeat for the Anti-Saloon league, whose state superintendent, Maj. F. B. Ebbert, was predicting right up to the call to order that Scholes would not have a chance. But as some of the wet votes for candidates other than Scholes, it was estimated that at least thirty drys, upon whom Ebbert had been counting, had voted for the wet from Peoria. The vote in the caucus was by secret ballot and probably the major will never know what drys forsook his sacred cause.

Devine Beaten by Roe.

John P. Devine of Lee county, former minority leader, was defeated for reelection in the Democratic house caucus by Arthur Roe of Fayette county, a wet. The vote was 10 to 7. Eleven Chicago wetts aided in the selection of Roe.

The Democrats who were in the bipartisan deal to help Sloan on the speakership if the contest was carried to the floor of the house supported Roe. The caucus vote proved that more than twenty drys ignored orders from the Anti-Saloon league in order to follow the governor.

Here are the Chicago Democrats who voted for Roe, using the wet issue as an explanation of their votes: Placek, Weber, Farina, O'Grady, Epstein, Griffin, Maher, Mitchell, Lipka, Ryan, and Frank.

May Lose In Senate.

As to the senate, Small's efforts tonight failed to break the majority held by the opposition in the Republican senate caucus and added emphasis was given to assertions that final action on the chairmanship of the appropriations committee, the one place upon which he has staked everything, will be a defeat for him.

That decision now rests with the committees on committees, which is split evenly between Small's followers and his opponents. It consists of Senators Roe, Barr, and Ewingston for the latter, and Senators Dingley, Jewell, and Lantz for Small. The former three are firm for Senator Wright. Small's candidate is Richard R. Means, from his own district.

Gains Order for Exhuming of Brother

BY MAUREEN M'KERNAN.

Investigation of the death of young William McClintock, the millionaire orphan, popped back into the limelight yesterday when Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court, testifying before the coroner's inquest, demanded the exhumation of the body of his brother, Dr. Oscar Olson, who died three years ago. The body was ordered exhumed and analyzed.

It was Justice Olson who gave impetus to the original investigation into Billy McClintock's death, an investigation pursued by State's Attorney Crowe to determine if young McClintock had died naturally and if his will, disposing of $1,000,000, had been properly drawn.

His Brother's Death.

Yesterday Justice Olson, before the coroner's jury, suggested that the state's attorney had not followed the circumstances of the case as scrupulously as was warranted. He went further. He said that his brother, Dr. Olson, who had been the medical adviser and confidant of young Billy McClintock, died very suddenly.

The justice explained that among those who last saw the doctor was William D. Shepherd. Shepherd was the guardian of young McClintock and inherited the McClintock million, except for an annuity of $5,000, payable to Miss Isabelle Pope, the girl who was to have married young McClintock.

Three Important Points.

Justice Olson's testimony fell into three phases:

That the death of his brother, Dr. Olson occurred under circumstances demanding exhumation and scientific inquiry.

That the death of Mrs. McClintock, mother of the millionaire orphan, occurred in such a manner as to cause him to refuse to be a pallbearer at her funeral.

That State's Attorney Crowe has failed to pursue an sufficient seal the examination of William D. Shepherd's relations with his late ward.

The inquest was expected to close in the afternoon with a cut and dried finding that McClintock had died of typhoid fever. Justice Olson's testimony, however, brought about a continuation.

Statement by Judge.

Judge Olson said he was never convinced that his brother, Dr. Olson, died of ptomaine poisoning. Then he continued:

"My family had known Billy's mother since he was a child. My brother was her physician until after she became so intimate with the Shepherds. As a child Billy had been devoted to my brother and when he had grown up, he returned to my brother as a friend and a doctor."

"Billy visited my brother two days before my brother died. Dr. Olson was then recovering from a slight attack of ptomaine poisoning but was declared out of danger. The next day, after Billy had visited for several hours with Dr. Olson, the Shepherds called for the first time in six years."

We had known Mr. and Mrs. William D. Shepherd for some time. They came bringing my brother fruit and asked if Billy had been talking with my brother the day before."

In Billy's Home.

"I may add here that my brother had often told Billy that he should assume control of his own affairs as soon as possible. At the time of my brother's death, as they were when Billy died, the Shepherds were living off Billy's money. In his home, and eating his food."

"The Shepherds remained at my brother's home some hours, and just before they left Mr. Shepherd was in the room with my brother alone, with the door almost closed, for some moments. My brother's wife asked her husband what they had talked about then, and the doctor said that Shepherd said he had talked to say that some old lands in Texas in which Shepherd had an interest."

NEW YORK HEARS DEVER ATTACK CHICAGO JUDGES

Says He Ended Rule of Rum Forces.

BY WILLIAM LAWSON.

New York, Jan. 6.—(Special.)—Eight hundred or more banqueters at the second annual meeting of the citizens' committee of one thousand, in the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, cheered Mayor Dever tonight when he rapped New York state officials for their failure or refusal to enforce the eighteenth amendment.

"I would rather walk with the criminal openly than evade my duty by thrusting responsibility for prohibition law enforcement on the federal government," declared the mayor, referring to New York's appeal of its search and seizure act.

Equally severe was his criticism of Chicago's courts and their failure to cooperate with him.

Staps Chicago Courts.

"We have a great system of courts in Chicago," he said. "We haven't the type of judges you know here. We have such a system that before we could get a decision upholding the mayor's effort to enforce the law we had to import a county judge."

The citizens' committee, a nonsectarian and nonpolitical group, is organized "for the purpose of arousing public sentiment throughout the nation in behalf of observance and enforcement of all laws and to support orderly methods of government."

be unusual in Chicago, but common justice compels me to say that we have had in our work in suppression of this traffic the hearty support of the federal authorities in Chicago.

"It would not be possible for me to indicate in detail the work done in our campaign to bring about respect for the law. One of our first steps was a somewhat drastic reorganization of our police department.

"We do not claim Chicago has yet reached the millennium; there are still some violations of law. But the undeniable fact is that the legal constituted authorities are now the governing power in Chicago and the illegal liquor traffic as a profitable and continuous business does not exist there.

"I am dealing now with the fundamental question of law enforcement. One would think that question was beyond the pale of discussion. Yet, important influences have brought up the question, not as to the wisdom of these laws, but as to the wisdom of their enforcement.

"It is said that they are obsolete. Obsolete? They form one of the latest expressions of the will of the people written into the constitution. It is urged that, since the laws are not enforceable, no public official is charged with the duty of even attempting to enforce them. The fact that a law may be repealed or modified by the very same procedure, and only by the same procedure, by which it was enacted was forgotten or ignored.

"Enforcement Not Unpopular. "But law enforcement is not unpopular in this country. Although it may cause much annoyance, the great majority of the people stand solidly for a vigorous enforcement of the laws.

"Again it is urged that the eighteenth amendment may be disregarded because of constitutional amendments have been disregarded. This argument in its essence means that a public official may take it upon himself to enforce only such laws as he may believe sound and wise. To disregard the validity of this argument is to destroy our government.

"Law the Infallible Guide. "Law must be enforced solely because it is law, and the public official who violates his duty in this respect is plainly a traitor to his country. How sadly are we in need of clear thinking upon this subject, and how necessary it is that the intelligent, patriotic citizen should brush aside the whole mass of cant, hypocrisy, and sophistry that has been built up about this question. More and more the great cities of America, because of their rapid growth, are becoming dominated in the nation.

"You may inquire, what is the remedy for these conditions? I repeat just a little more clear thinking; a little more civic spirit; a little more interest in politics; a genuine effort on the part of the voter to distinguish between the real and the apparent and the treating with public scorn and contempt any organ, or any group of persons who preach disrespect for American law."

I. C. ENJOINED FROM LEASING FULTON CUTOFF

The Illinois Central railroad yesterday was enjoined by Superior Judge Charles McF. Foell from operating, purchasing, or leasing a 169 mile railroad in southern Illinois and Kentucky which is now under construction. The road is intended as a short cut from Edgewood, Ill., to Fulton, Ky., and was to take the place of the present Illinois Central line between the two towns.

"Judge Foell was asked by the citizens bringing suit through Attorney General Brundage to enjoin construction of the road.

"I will not order the construction stopped," the judge ruled, "but the Illinois Central may not purchase stock in it, lease or operate it after it is completed. If they attempt to finance the project in any manner they do so at their peril."

HULL DRAWS BILL TO MEET CITY'S SEWAGE CRISIS

Asks Haste in Congress to Obtain Early Vote.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.) Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(Special.)—Activities were being speeded up today in both congress and the war department looking toward the relief of Chicago in the emergency occasioned by the Supreme court decision against the sanitary district.

Legislation should be well on its way by the end of next week and every effort will be made to get a remedial law on the statute books before the expiration of the sixty days respite granted by the Supreme court.

Hull Reviews Bill. Today's activities may be summed up as follows: Representative William E. Hull (Rep., Ill.) introduced a revised form of his bill for improvement of the Illinois river designed to meet the approval of both the sanitary district and the down state voters. He announced his intention of pushing the measure in the rivers and harbors committee and said he has the assurance of the committee it will report a bill to the house as soon as the interests involved can agree on its form.

Announcement was made that hearings will be resumed next Tuesday before the senate committee on Senator McCormick's lakes to the gulf waterway resolution. Attorney Barrett, Chief Engineer Kelly, and others of the sanitary district, as well as representatives of down state interests in Illinois are expected to be present. The result of this conference may be some changes in Mr. Madden's relief bill, offered in the house months ago.

Secretary of War Weeks sent a letter to Maj. Gen. Harry Taylor, chief of engineers, asking him to look up all the data in the possession of his department relating to water diversion at Chicago, and, after granting a hearing to all interested parties, to transmit to him recommendations for a policy to be pursued by the war department.

The opinion handed down by the Supreme court upholding an injunction against the diversion of more than 4,167 cubic feet of water per second stated the injunction was to issue "without prejudice to any permit the secretary of war may grant."

It is not expected that any permit will be issued by the war department, however, until the expiration of the sixty day period.

Confirms U. S. Power. Secretary Weeks declared the decision has clarified the situation by setting out the question of navigation as the paramount issue.

"It confirms the power of the federal government to control the flow of navigable streams," he said. "I expect to receive some communications from Chicago between now and the expiration of the sixty day period and I have asked Gen. Taylor to furnish me with the necessary data to reply to these."

The attitude of a majority of Illinois congressmen appears to be against application of the war department for relief, as any permit granted would necessarily be of a temporary nature and leave the basic problem unsettled. They believe that a better opportunity exists of passing legislation at this session.

The feeling against the sanitary district by residents along the Illinois river is acute owing to the board's tardiness in constructing disposal plants and its slowness in setting claims.

Provisions of Hull Bill. The bill introduced by Mr. Hull provides for a navigable nine foot waterway from the lake to the mouth of the Ohio river and authorizes an appropriation of $5,000,000 to be spent under the direction of the war department with the understanding the state is to finance the work from the lake to Utica.

It requires the sanitary district to turn over to the government, funds necessary to construct compensating works in the St. Clair, Niagara or St. Lawrence river. It stipulates that the sanitary district must complete and operate disposal plants within a period of ten years, but grants an extension of ten years in the discretion of the secretary of war.

10,000 Cubic Feet Limit. It permits a divergence not to exceed 10,000 cubic feet per second, but states:

"The sewage purification works contemplated in this act to be completed and in operation during each year of the period of time hereinafter mentioned with such speed as the secretary of war may direct, and the diversion contemplated in this act shall be reduced as sewage disposal plants are erected until the ultimate diversion shall not exceed 7,500 cubic feet per second, provided that the diversion shall be at all times sufficient to maintain in the channel of the Illinois and the Mississippi rivers from Utica, Ill., to the mouth of the Ohio river a channel depth of nine feet with all dams in the Illinois river removed."

Claims Board Authorized. It provides for the creation of a federal Illinois waterways commission to have jurisdiction over damage claims. It authorizes the secretary of war to compel the construction of controlling works as safeguards against floods and states that all "rights, powers, and privileges" granted the sanitary district shall be automatically annulled if it fails to carry out the provisions within sixty days after it has been notified by the war department of violations.

Mr. Hull said he believes the measure affords Chicago the necessary relief and at the same time safeguards the interests of downstate residents.

"The decision," he said, "causes great anxiety not only in Chicago but along the Illinois river because of the fact that if you take the water out of the sewage that is now in the river will remain there to jeopardize the lives and health of 5,000,000 people in Chicago and of all those along the river."

"Congress should immediately pass a bill providing a deep waterway from Lake Michigan to the gulf. The Mississippi project evidently will pass this session, but unless it is supplied with water, which must come from Lake Michigan through the Illinois river, we will not have a deep waterway. I introduce my bill now in order that it can be brought before the public in its present state and other amendments deemed important added."

Hope in Congress: Dever. New York, Jan. 6.—(Special.)—Chicago will be subjected to the danger of a serious epidemic if the United States Supreme court decision takes effect before a new sewage system has been completed, Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago declared here today.

CITIZENS PLEDGE HELP IN FIGHT TO GUARD HEALTH

Drainage Board Asks Six Thousand to Meeting.

Chicago aroused itself yesterday, determined to fight for the preservation of its health.

At the offices of the sanitary board drainage officials received many offers of help in obtaining immediate relief from the war department in the form of a permit that will permit the district to withdraw 10,000 cubic feet per second from Lake Michigan to dispose of the area's sewage and waste.

Most of the offers of assistance came by telegram or telephone, but many officials and private citizens came in person to volunteer their services.

Congressman Martin E. Madden of Chicago through his secretary urged President Lawrence F. King of the board and the trustees to come to Washington at once and meet with the Illinois delegation and determine upon a course of action. President King advised him that the Chicago delegation would probably leave Sunday following the mass meeting planned for Saturday afternoon in the council chamber.

6,000 Invited to Meeting. Yesterday 6,000 invitations went out from the sanitary district addressed to private citizens, members of the state legislature, city, state, and county officials, presidents of village boards in the district, bankers, civic organizations, hotels and physicians asking them to attend the meeting which is set for 1 o'clock Saturday.

The meeting will be advised of the situation created by the United States Supreme court's order directing the reduction of water withdrawal from Lake Michigan from 10,000 to 4,167 cubic feet per second and asked to take action.

First consideration of Chicago's sewage crisis will come today at meetings of the Chicago Association of Commerce at noon in the Hotel La Salle and of the Chicago public affairs committee in the evening.

Bundeen Is Aroused. New parlia if the federal court's order is carried out in sixty days were recited by Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundeen. He said: "Any increase in the pollution of the lake will impair the effectiveness of chlorine for safeguarding the public water. Additional sewage that would undoubtedly follow if only 4,167 cubic feet of water were diverted would tax the chlorinator equipment beyond its capacity.

The first step of the drainage trustees will be to seek relief from Secretary of War Weeks and it is hoped that he will see fit to grant a permit authorizing the district to continue its usual withdrawals.

Regardless of what action he takes, it was pointed out, the relief is only temporary and any permanent assurance of sanitation must come by congressional action. The war department, it was noted, could at any time revoke the permit and the situation now confronting the district would be renewed.

Favor Madden's Bill. Congressman Madden's bill, known as house bill No. 7,044, is the one on which the sanitary district officials will most likely concentrate. The bill, long pending in the house, provides for the withdrawal of water required by the district, not to exceed 10,000 cubic feet, and in turn the district is to pay to the federal government its reasonable share of the cost of constructing the required works to control water levels in the great lakes.

It further requires the board to continue with the installation of sewage purification plants so that within a period of twenty-five years the amount of raw sewage and waste passing through the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers shall be at least 50 per cent less than the amount passing through these streams now.

Congressman M. A. Michaelson of Chicago also has a bill in the house which guarantees 10,000 cubic feet of water per second for the district.

TRAIN KILLS TWO AT CROSSING. Seymour, Ind., Jan. 6.—George Lewis, 63, and an unidentified youth about 19 years old were killed today when their wagon was struck by an interurban car four miles from here.

MOTHER FINDS LOST SON AFTER MONTHS' TRAVEL

Locates Talented Heir in Hobo Hotel.

Mother love, which impelled a wealthy woman from her luxurious home to travel 6,000 miles and spend many dollars, was rewarded last night when Mrs. H. C. Conrad of Memphis, Tenn., found her errant boy, Harold, bearded and ragged, in a hobo hotel near Clark and Van Buren streets.

Harold, 26 years old, a writer and the winner of college oratorical contests, became discontented in the lap of luxury last September. So one night he left home. It was easy for Harold. A week later, when he had not come back, the mother was prostrated. From a sickbed she wrote a bulletin for national distribution, offering a reward. She printed advertisements in leading newspapers and the radio was resorted to.

Travels Over Country. Finally, when she recovered a little, Mrs. Conrad boarded trains and traveled to all big cities of the east and west. She haunted police stations and paced the streets of the underworld. This wealthy woman stood on street corners and passed her circulars to skeptical passersby.

Last week reports reached her that the son had been located at the Y. M. C. A. hotel here, but before Mrs. Conrad arrived the young man had disappeared again.

She commenced haunting the detective bureau. She enlisted all the tramps of the west side in her service. So earnest was Mrs. Conrad and the tears she shed to suppress came so easily to her eyes that Detective Griffin and Sponder set out with her last night.

"Like looking for a needle in a haystack," they told each other, but they went along.

Enter a Flophouse. Into a dozen flophouses went the two sergeants with the little ragged mother. Finally, as they trudged into a lobby, an unwashed, ragged youth stared at them. In a moment Mrs. Conrad's arms were about her boy.

Coolidge Veto Upheld; Bill Pressed

BY ARTHUR SEARS H. Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(Special.)—President Coolidge's veto of the bill to sustain the postal employees' pay raise, sustained by the senate this morning, was upheld by the Supreme court today.

The veto and twenty-nine of the fifty-five senators voted to leave the White House. If anything, to brag a triumphphant election was a virtue of the support of several "lame duck" Republicans by several Democrats, not executed an about face measure in order to defeat certain.

May Press Another M. With this postal pay bill administration leaders announced that they will provide for wage postal employees and for a postal rate advance to provide additional revenue required for compensation.

There is grave doubt, however, as to whether any bill raising wages can be passed in the remainder of this congress.

Test for Senate L. The leadership not only dent, but of Senator (Karl), the new majority in senate, was at stake in today. Senator Curtis was fight, but by such a vote the veto was upheld.

The White House chose the test of fealty to tradition, perhaps largely a biological effort of a triumph as President Coolidge on his tenure of office in 1923. Every ounce of influential possession was exerted to prevent the veto from being so palpable were the official plums with which would expect to be rewarded.

YANKEE FLYERS GAZE ON SEPOY MUTINY SCENES

Tell How Air Bombs
Prevent Another.

BY LOWELL THOMAS.

(Copyright, 1925, By The Chicago Tribune
Newspapers Syndicate and the McClure
Newspapers Syndicate.)

SECTION XLVII

It was in the heart of India that America's globe girdling ships of the air for the first time came face to face with "ships of the desert."

As the world flyers roared across the airframe at Allahabad a long string of camels came trekking over the sun-baked plain. The excitement and curiosity of the drivers was only exceeded by the haughty disdain and utter indifference of their supercilious camels.

With the exception of Erik Nelson, none of the flyers ever had met a camel outside a zoo. So before setting-up their cruisers "Smiling Jack" and "Houdini" began coaxing two dromedaries into kneeling, mounted their humps, and took their first solo flight in the sheik of Araby.

When their camels started to "take off" and rose to their feet with a series of double-jointed fore and aft jerks, the surprised looks on the faces of the two animals brought shrieks of laughter from the natives.

Flyers Prefer Flying

The other flyers prodded the camels, and as "Jack" and "Hank" clung to the humps for dear life their mounts tumbled across the airframe at twenty miles an hour. So shaken were the boys when they finally slid back to earth that they said never would they recommend the camel as a means of transportation excepting to people who possess their trip of India.

After spending the night in Allahabad the flyers took off the next morning for Ambala, an important British military post not far from the Himalayas, right in the heart of northern India, near the eastern border of the Punjab, one of the largest and richest provinces in all Hindustan.

To avoid the intense heat they flew most of the way at an altitude of 5,000 feet. So for another 500 miles the six American airmen and Wells, their stowaway, had a marvelous birdseye view of a part of India where for thousands and thousands of years many of the most important events of human history have taken place.

See Father of Highways

To begin with, on this day's flight, just as on the journey up from Calcutta to Allahabad, they were flying above the Grand Trunk road, one of the oldest highways on earth, the road which has rounded the trunk of migrating herds and conquering armies ever since the early Aryans came down from the plateaus of central Asia and overran India 5,000 years ago.

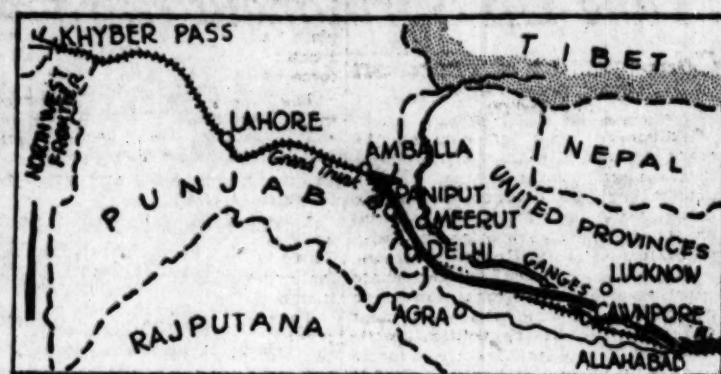

Down this same road came the Scythians, the Parthians, the white Mughals, the ruthless hordes under Timur the Tartar, and the armies of Babur the Great and of his descendants, the magnificent Moghuls. Over this same road marched the soldiers of England during the tragic days of the great Indian mutiny. It has also been immortalized in fiction, for it was along this Grand Trunk road that Kipling's Kim made his pilgrimage with the holy man from Tibet.

Wells Recites History
On this part of the trip the stowaway no longer was obliged to conceal himself in the tool compartment. Lieut. Ogden invited him to squeeze into his cockpit. Wells sat on the cushion of seat wedged against the tail of control. He had even to take off his shoes so that he could sit in the cockpit. For six hours they sat jammed together so neither hardly could move.

"Our aerial stowaway, like most beach combers, hobos, and stowaways, made up in knowledge of history and geography what he lacked in physical wealth," Lieut. Ogden said.

"For the first hour we flew di-

FLYERS OVER INDIA

From Allahabad to Ambala, which the world flyers covered on July 2, the planes flew over the field of one of the hardest fought wars of history, the Indian mutiny. They saw Lucknow, Cawnpore, Delhi, and other points where the British, terribly outnumbered, finally won against the rebellious natives. They discovered, too, that Britain keeps a large air force in India, ready to fly and bomb out the first smolderings of a fresh mutiny.

rectly above the Ganges. Wells said that the Hindus all believe this river flows from the brain of Brahma, who is one of their trinity of leading gods. Brahma, he went on to explain, is the creator of life. Vishnu is the preserver of life, and Shiva is the destroyer. I had no difficulty in hearing Wells above the roar of the engine, because his mouth was pressed against my ear. He also told me that the Hindus worship more than thirty million different gods—four times as many gods as there are people in Canada.

Scenes of Massacres

"About an hour and a half out from Ambala, Wells pointed down to a city on the banks of the Ganges, and shouted in my ear, 'There's Cawnpore.' According to our prearranged plan, this was one of the places where we were to shift position in order to get a bit more comfortable.

"After we had switched sides in the cockpit and Wells had graciously conceded another eighth of an inch of seat to me, he pointed down again to a church spire in an open field. 'Sixty-seven years ago this very month down there beneath a was enacted one of the most frightful tragedies of history. A hundred thousand Indian Sepoys, troops whom the British had trained, broke out in mutiny. Regiment after regiment, not only murdered their officers, but they bayoneted the wives and children as well."

"We flew right over the field where that twenty-one day battle occurred. We looked down and saw the staircase at the 'Massacre ghat' where the traitorous Nana murdered all of the men. In a beautiful green park our stowaway guide pointed over the view of a part of India where for thousands and thousands of years many of the most important events of human history have taken place.

Alpines Prevents Such Mutinies

"The one thought uppermost in our minds as we looked down on the scene of the Cawnpore massacre was how easy it would be to fly a thousand miles across India and drop enough bombs from the sky in five minutes to put an end to a mutiny of that sort. Evidently the British realize this, because we discovered they have a larger air force based in the east than they have in the whole United States.

"As we were flying over Cawnpore, off to the right we saw another city of masonry fame, a city where it is hallowed ground to every man, woman, and child of British origin. It was there at Lucknow that Sir Henry Lawrence and a handful of fighting men defended their families in the residency against a vast horde of well armed natives who surrounded and shelled them for five months. The defense of the residency at Lucknow ranks with the battle of Marathon as one of the finest feats of arms in history.

"If the airplane has done nothing else for civilization it has eliminated the possibility of any more occurrences like the tragedies at Cawnpore and Lucknow. Whole bodies of troops can be transported across India by plane today with a few hours, where it took weeks and months but a few years ago.

An Old World Capital
"The next signal for Wells and me to shift our positions in the cockpit was when he saw the world famous city of Agra on our left. Here again our stowaway broke the monotony of the flight by telling me about this herd had interested the doctor had brought in a gusher. Mrs. Olson never heard of the well after her husband died, however.

OLSON WANTS EXHUMATION OF BROTHER'S BODY

"Dr. Olson's death occurred the day after Shepherd had called on him. The doctor became rapidly worse after the visit—we even feared suicide at that time from poisoning, because his illness had not warranted such a change. 'I do not know what we will find in my brother's body. Three years is a long time, but I will not be satisfied until an examination is made.'"

Comes as Surprise

Judge Olson's testimony was injected into the inquest just as it was expected to close, and came as a surprise.

A police officer went to Judge Olson in the morning of the inquest, and his presence was not requested, he might want to know that the inquest was being resumed. Taking his signpost with him, Judge Olson went to the inquest.

"Do you want to question me?" he asked.

Deputy Coroner Charles Kennedy, who was conducting the inquest, said that he did not.

"Aren't you interested?" Judge Olson asked.

Judge Olson, holding up his hand, said, "Swear me."

Tells of Billy's Mother

Then the judge, at whose request the whole question of Billy McClintock's death was raised, told the story of the life of the boy's mother from the days of her childhood in Kansas, when the Olson family first came to the United States.

He said that she had died suddenly, taking sick while with the Shepherds in Texas, and that he had been so suspicious at the haste shown to bury her that he would not act as pallbearer.

An interesting sidelight on the judge's information about his young friend's illness was a reported conversation between Shepherd and L. L. McArthur, Jr. of the Northern Trust company, who has been interested in the management of young McClintock's property.

Beginning of Illness

McArthur, Judge Olson said, had told the chief justice of a conversation with William Shepherd about Billy's sudden illness. "The boy came home sick and so I suppose that I feared he had the influenza," Shepherd was reported by McArthur to have said.

Judge Olson testified, "Billy told me that he knew that he had typhoid, but he said he did not know where he had been exposed right there at the beginning of his sickness," Shepherd said, Judge Olson testified McArthur had reported.

Objections by Stoll

During Judge Olson's testimony Robert H. Stoll, Shepherd's law partner and his counsel, objected strongly to a conversation Judge Olson said he had had with Stoll a few hours after McClintock's death.

"Stoll came into my office," Judge Olson said, "and I am certain that he came to tell me at once about how I felt over the boy's death. 'Well, Bill,' McClintock's dead, Stoll announced, as he stepped into the room. I wanted to add 'at last.' Then Stoll and I fell to talking about the will, and I advised him to handle the will fight, should it arise, himself—I want-

PANAMA CANAL DEFENSES WEAK; PLANES NEEDED

Base for Submarines in Pacific Also Urged.

The full effect of the northeast trade winds and every day there is a floating sky screen, adequate for the effective concealment of enemy bombers from the ground guns. On the Pacific side the percentage of clouds is higher throughout the year.

The function of pursuit planes is to carry guns into these straits concealments and track down and destroy enemy bombers before they drop their explosives against the vital works of the canal. The nearness of the two oceans with their prolific shelters enables the enemy, basing these operations in either ocean, to operate also from the waters of either.

Pacific End Weak.

Of the military establishment of the Panama canal the Pacific terminal is the weakest part. On each side of Balboa, well within the cruising radius of submarine or airplanes, lie countless bays and sheltered waters, many sufficient to anchor the battle fleet of any Pacific power. The owners of these waters are small, weak nations.

The chief military and naval base is on the Atlantic side. On the Atlantic side the approaches of the canal are also protected by the shoulder of South America on the south, and the screen of the West Indies islands on the east.

An imposing American merchant fleet has bound the nations of the Caribbean economically to the United States. It has invested hundreds of millions of dollars in this region. Its operations are not dependent on the canal. They pass to and from the ports on the open gulfs and seas. But they realize the importance of the Panama canal, not only because it is the naval base for the protection of their bananas, coffee, coco, and coconut ports, but because of its general influence over the native populations.

These companies out of their private funds have cleared landing fields and improved harbors to enable the forces of defense at the canal to execute essential maneuvers along the Caribbean, which the economies of congress otherwise would forbid.

ARREST MEANS, TAKE HIM TO NEW YORK TRIAL

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 6.—Gaston E. Means, former department of justice agent, was brought here today to take a train early tonight for New York, having been arrested today at his home at Concord, N. C., on a bench warrant ordered by Federal Judge Lindley in New York yesterday, when Means failed to appear for trial.

Means, who had been declared by himself and his physician, Dr. Joe A. Hartwell, to have been suffering from an acute case of gallstones, said here tonight that he was feeling better. He was in custody of a deputy marshal, who was authorized to take him to New York, where it was charged that he is feigning illness to escape trial.

SIGN PLEDGE OR GET OUT, UPSHAW TELLS DRINKING OFFICIALS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[United Press.]—Friends of national sobriety must "throw out the red lanterns of danger and ask 'Where do we go from here?'" Representative Upshaw (Ga.) told the United Press today in commenting on the Scott divorce case in Alpena, Mich.

"Stirred by revelations of drinking by officials in Washington as revealed in the testimony, Upshaw demanded that every government official 'sign the pledge or give up his job.'"

"For God's sake, let's stop this thing or rent out the capitol for a term of years," Upshaw declared.

"It would be a wholesome thing for the sake of America's reputation at home and abroad if every member of both branches of congress would pledge that he would never again touch the liquor that has been outlawed by the constitution of his country."

Flagrant violation of the Volstead act by senators and congressmen who are responsible for its becoming a law, tends to add to the already overwhelming contempt for the act by otherwise law abiding citizens, Capt. W. H. Stuy, executive head of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment said today.

"The first case of flagrant violation of the Volstead act by a member of congress was brought to the attention of the public when Congressman Langley of Kentucky was convicted of conspiracy to defeat the law's provisions. Next we heard of a dry member appearing on the floor of the house intoxicated and of wet parties in the house office building."

"It would seem that there should be an item in the current treasury appropriation bill for the education of dry congressmen to respect the law they are responsible for."

SCOTT DIVORCE DELAYED; WIFE SEEKS EVIDENCE

Denies Indiscretions with Capital "Fast Set."

Alpena, Mich., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The largest of the crowds which have haunted the Alpena courthouse during the hearing before Circuit Judge Emerick of Congressman Frank D. Scott's suit for divorce met disappointment this afternoon when the case abruptly adjourned to Tuesday, March 10, to permit the taking of additional depositions.

Judge Emerick granted permission to Ward H. Peck, attorney for Mrs. Scott, to introduce additional depositions and the attorney presented application to obtain depositions from the following persons: Dr. Frederick C. Holden, New York City; Frank Denolo, a servant on the second trip to Panama on the steamer Henderson; Mrs. Clifford Ireland, wife of Congressman Ireland of Illinois; William E. Leahy, lawyer of Washington; Capt. Wilbur D. "Jazzbo" Sumner; Mrs. Peggy Hamilton and Mrs. Harvey Burwell, wife of Maj. Burwell, all of Washington.

Finishes Cross-Examination.
In the morning Mrs. Scott completed her testimony. She took the witness stand with her face wreathed in smiles to face relentless cross-examination by her husband's attorney, I. S. Canfield.

"Every time you turn around in Washington it is a cocktail," she declared at one point.

Just how much foundation is there for stories Miss Jane Kennedy told us on the witness stand?" Mr. Canfield demanded.

"Well, there was some slight foundation, but she enlarged on everything. I have entertained Capt. Sumner and Lieut. Don Shattelle and Mr. Wyckoff had been in my apartment, but there was nothing wrong. I had nothing to hide and I told her about these army officers. Mr. Wyckoff does not count. He was just a boy. I felt sorry for him and introduced him to Jane Kennedy because she asked me to."

"Should a married woman look through field glasses at the bedroom of a young man and watch each night when the lights go out?" asked Mr. Canfield.

"I didn't know Mr. Wyckoff was married at first," Mrs. Scott said. "Then I felt sorry for him and gave him magazines to read. I showed Miss Kennedy Mr. Wyckoff's apartment building because she asked to see it. That is why I got out the binoculars and showed where he lived."

Fastened a Button.

The dressing episode in which Scott charged his wife was assisted by Wyckoff was gone into and giving the public an entirely false impression of men who are above reproach."

of the shoulders of my gown," she testified.

Mrs. Allan Moore, wife of the representative from Monticello, Ill., was the first member of the congressional set with whom she became intimate, Mrs. Scott stated.

"I cultivated this acquaintance and others that Mr. Scott suggested, in official circles, but there were others whom he himself told me he did not care to have me know," she said.

The congressional set was dull, she said, and added that she knew but few of the congressional crowd before going on a trip to Panama with her husband. On this trip, she said, she met Congressman and Mrs. Royal Johnson. She testified that Scott told her that Johnson often embarrassed his wife by getting drunk in public places.

"The whole affair has been indescribably shocking to me," said Congressman Scott, after adjournment was taken. "The picture that has been drawn of the life of the average congressman is entirely out of reason."

Exposure of one set invited the attacks, sparing no one, and giving the public an entirely false impression of men who are above reproach."

2 CHICAGOANS TO HUNT FOR GOLD IN WILDS OF BORNEO

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] SINGAPORE, Jan. 6.—Dr. W. O. Krohn and Attorney Morris Ives, both of Chicago, sailed from Singapore today en route on a dangerous mission to the interior of Dutch Borneo, where they will hunt certain gold deposits and fabulous riches. The Chicago adventurers will stop first at Java to arrange permits with the Dutch authorities.

The lure of the glittering metal will take them to the northern third of the east coast of an unexplored island. Landing at Berouw, they intend to lead an expedition up the river Kelai to a point, 200 miles inland, the center of the country of the wild Dyaks, fierce head hunting tribesmen of the interior.

Mr. Ives has maps which locate the deposits sixteen miles up an unexplored tributary of the Kelai. Dr. Krohn is commissioned by the Field museum to seek zoological specimens.

COLORED MORON ATTACKS WOMEN IN 2 HOSPITALS

Police Reserves Join in Man Hunt.

Every available policeman in the Pullman street district yesterday was assigned by Capt. James Gleason to join in the search through the west side for a colored moron who broke into two hospitals within two hours and attempted to attack three women, one the mother of a 2 hour old baby. After a desperate encounter with two nurses he made his escape.

"We have a good description of this man and are determined to get him, dead or alive," said Capt. Gleason last night.

"It is the second case of this kind on the west side within a few weeks, and the outrages must stop."

One Held in Jail.

In the former instance William Smith, a colored man, 28 years old, 2329 Dearborn street, attacked a woman patient at the county hospital. Smith is now held in the county jail under $10,000 bonds awaiting grand jury action.

The other moron appeared first yesterday at the Robert Burns hospital, 2801 Washington boulevard, and, eluding attendants, he slipped into the private room of William J. Navy, 1624 North Harding avenue, a patient.

Navy called out sharply and the man fled, encountering in the hall Miss Susie Jones, one of the nurses. Miss Jones screamed as the man crouched to spring upon her. The moron ran out of the building.

Enters Woman's Room.

An hour later patients and nurses of the Garfield Park hospital, a few doors away, were alarmed when the moron suddenly appeared and made his way into the room of Mrs. Mathilda Infante, 20 years old, who had become a mother two hours earlier.

"The doctor sent me in to see how you're getting on," he said, leaning over the woman's bed.

Mrs. Infante screamed and fainted. A few moments later another patient, Mrs. Suzanne Selby, 25 years old, 704 Fourth East avenue, Oak Park, was startled to see the bulky form hovering over her bed.

The woman screamed and the man fled into the corridor, encountering Miss Alice Lantier, whom he seized. Another nurse, Miss Gladys Johnson, hearing the disturbance, assisted Miss Lantier in fighting the man off.

It was later found he had stolen three gold watches during his prowling of the hospitals.

Famous Old Cliff House
Becomes a Coffee Shop

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—The Cliff House, San Francisco's historic ocean front hotel, today hung up a new sign: "Coffee shop, regular coffee shop menu," says the board.

This service has grown steadily in popularity with the public. At present 402 suburban trains are operated each week day, carrying about 87,000 passengers a day between downtown Chicago and various outlying districts—Hyde Park, Woodlawn, South Shore, Kensington, Blue Island, Matteson, Addison and intervening stations.

We have striven to make our suburban service the best of its kind to be had anywhere. We are now engaged in making extensive improvements preparatory to the operation of our entire suburban service by electrical power, beginning in 1926. Expenditures for improvements other than equipment so far total more than four million dollars. In the last sixty days we have placed orders for new equipment for the exclusive use of our suburban service which will cost more than eight million dollars.

Develops Communities But Loses Money

WE believe that those who patronize our suburban trains are greatly benefited by the service and that most of them appreciate it. We believe that this service has contributed to the development of their communities to a greater extent than any other single factor. We believe that it has helped to make these communities highly preferred residential districts, and in so doing, we believe, it has added many millions of dollars of value to both business and residential properties.

But while the Illinois Central suburban service has been adding greatly to the wealth of property owners and to the convenience of its patrons, it has been and is now losing large sums of money for the railroad.

In the year ending June 30, 1921, the revenues of the suburban service were $2,292,749 and the operating expenses $3,252,031, leaving a deficit of $959,282. Taxes were $160,565, bringing the total deficit for the year to $1,119,847.

In the year ending June 30, 1922, the revenues of the suburban service were $2,322,011 and the operating expenses $2,998,514, leaving a deficit of $676,502. Taxes were $162,402, bringing the total deficit for the year to $838,905.

In the year ending June 30, 1923, the revenues of the suburban service were $2,643,930 and the operating expenses $3,359,233, leaving a deficit of $715,302. Taxes were $184,150, bringing the total deficit for the year to $899,453.

In the year ending June 30, 1924, the revenues of the suburban service were $2,717,891 and the operating expenses $3,495,061, leaving a deficit of $777,169. Taxes were $188,739, bringing the total deficit for the year to $965,909.

HANDS OF DEATH

The hands of the clock indicate the number of deaths by autos, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

NEW CLOCK OF DEATH RECORDS FIVE ON JAN. 7

John Snorde, 58, of Palatine, Ill., died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries received Monday night, when he was struck by an automobile on the River road, near Des Plaines.

A passing motorist took him to the hospital, where officials said they believed Snorde had been blinded by the lights of approaching cars and stepped in front of the automobile that killed him.

He was the county's fifth motor victim so far this year.

Mrs. Emma E. Weiland of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., formerly a resident of Chicago, was killed when a motor bus operating between Miami and Palm Beach, on which she was a passenger, was struck by a freight train in Fort Lauderdale. Mrs. Weiland, a widow, was a sister of Mrs. Will J. Reed of Waukegan.

CUT $2,000,000 FROM COST OF 14 NEW SCHOOLS

Charles M. Moderwell, president of the board of education, said yesterday the adoption of a new type of building will save nearly $2,000,000 in the construction of fourteen new elementary buildings to be started in May.

By economizing in space, eliminating superfluous corridors and using narrower ones it is expected to cut the cost of a building $146 per pupil.

Considerable saving will also be effected, Mr. Moderwell said, by building heating plants large enough to permit addition of wings to the original buildings.

She Went to the

A Pair of Gloves

Catherine Corrigan, 40 years old, of 3337 West Congress street, some months ago left the home of Samuel D. Keller, for whom she had been working as a maid. She took $220 worth of clothes and jewelry with her.

Yesterday she walked into an apparel store at 1244 South Halsted street to buy gloves. In five minutes she was under arrest.

The store is Keller's.

U. S. AID ROADS LONG ENOUGH TO CIRCLE WORLD

If the federal aid roads of the United States completed during the last year or under construction were placed end to end, beginning at New York and running westward, they would circle the globe and would overlap enough to stick out into the Pacific ocean to a point about a thousand miles north-east of Honolulu.

But highway building must not stop, Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, said yesterday to 500 members of the American Road Builders' association who are holding their annual convention at the Congress hotel.

"Traffic has developed overnight," he declared. "The undertaking is now only well begun. In many areas of dense population the utilization of highway transport has been slowed down and the normal and entirely justifiable use of the motor vehicle definitely curtailed."

The chief benefit of the federal aid system has been the creation of a definite plan for the future, Mr. MacDonald said. Such a plan of major highways has been established, he said, which looks into the future for more than ten years for its initial completion and a quarter of a century for its detailed perfection.

J. H. Cranford, a contractor of Washington, D. C., and president of the association, presided. Austin B. Fletcher, consulting engineer of the bureau of public roads, told of observations in England where arterial highways designed for trucking are giving work to the unemployed.

"America in twenty-five years will have roads enough for everybody," predicted George W. Tilson of La Grange, Ill. "Roads will go under and over each other, eliminating the crossroad in the future, and in 1935 or 1940 commuting from the suburbs will be done almost entirely by bus."

E. S. Taylor, manager of the Chicago plan commission, and Frank T. Sheets, chief highway engineer of Illinois, will be among the speakers today. A thousand road builders are expected at the banquet at the Congress hotel this evening.

BRIG. GEN. FRIES SAYS CHLORINE GAS CURES COLDS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—Chlorine gas has demonstrated its value as a cure and preventive of respiratory diseases, Brig. Gen. Fries, chief of the army chemical warfare service, declared in an address here, referring to the recent dispute before the American Society for the Advancement of Science in which some claimed it was valueless.

Speaking before the American Chemical society last night, Gen. Fries said his observation in the treatment of 931 cases of whooping cough, bronchitis, common colds, and other respiratory affections had been "conclusive of the good effects of chlorine."

Illinois Central System Points Out the Losses Incurred in Its Suburban Operations

THE management of the Illinois Central System for some time has been greatly concerned about the extensive financial losses that have been and are being incurred in the operation of its Chicago suburban passenger service. We want the public to be acquainted with these facts.

This service has grown steadily in popularity with the public. At present 402 suburban trains are operated each week day, carrying about 87,000 passengers a day between downtown Chicago and various outlying districts—Hyde Park, Woodlawn, South Shore, Kensington, Blue Island, Matteson, Addison and intervening stations.

We have striven to make our suburban service the best of its kind to be had anywhere. We are now engaged in making extensive improvements preparatory to the operation of our entire suburban service by electrical power, beginning in 1926. Expenditures for improvements other than equipment so far total more than four million dollars. In the last sixty days we have placed orders for new equipment for the exclusive use of our suburban service which will cost more than eight million dollars.

Develops Communities But Loses Money

WE believe that those who patronize our suburban trains are greatly benefited by the service and that most of them appreciate it. We believe that this service has contributed to the development of their communities to a greater extent than any other single factor. We believe that it has helped to make these communities highly preferred residential districts, and in so doing, we believe, it has added many millions of dollars of value to both business and residential properties.

But while the Illinois Central suburban service has been adding greatly to the wealth of property owners and to the convenience of its patrons, it has been and is now losing large sums of money for the railroad.

In the year ending June 30, 1921, the revenues of the suburban service were $2,292,749 and the operating expenses $3,252,031, leaving a deficit of $959,282. Taxes were $160,565, bringing the total deficit for the year to $1,119,847.

In the year ending June 30, 1922, the revenues of the suburban service were $2,322,011 and the operating expenses $2,998,514, leaving a deficit of $676,502. Taxes were $162,402, bringing the total deficit for the year to $838,905.

In the year ending June 30, 1923, the revenues of the suburban service were $2,643,930 and the operating expenses $3,359,233, leaving a deficit of $715,302. Taxes were $184,150, bringing the total deficit for the year to $899,453.

In the year ending June 30, 1924, the revenues of the suburban service were $2,717,891 and the operating expenses $3,495,061, leaving a deficit of $777,169. Taxes were $188,739, bringing the total deficit for the year to $965,909.

The total deficit incurred in the four years ending June 30, 1924, after payment of operating expenses and taxes, was $3,824,116, an average of $956,029 a year, not taking into consideration the question of a return on the property investment.

These deficits take into consideration all operating expenses that are properly assignable to the suburban service—that is, including its fair share of overhead expenses. If we consider only the actual out-of-pocket running expenses of the suburban service—that is, not including overhead expenses—there is still a deficit being incurred of approximately $360,000 a year. To put it another way, if the Illinois Central discontinued operation of its suburban service entirely it would save approximately $1,000 a day.

Commutation Fares Are Out of Line

COMMUTATION fares have not borne a fair share of the increases that have had to be made in railway rates in recent years to meet greater operating expenses. Prior to June, 1918, the standard intrastate passenger fare in Illinois was established by state law at 2 cents a mile. In that month the director general of railroads (the railroads at that time being administered by the government) established a standard fare of 3 cents a mile throughout the country, thereby raising the standard fare in Illinois 50 per cent. At the same time commutation fares in the Chicago district were increased only 10 per cent.

In September, 1920, the Interstate Commerce Commission established a standard fare of 3.6 cents a mile throughout the country, and in January, 1921, this increase was applied to intrastate fares in Illinois. No increase, however, was made at that time in commutation fares in the Chicago district.

At present, therefore, the standard passenger fare in Illinois is 80 per cent greater than in the early part of 1918, the increase being from 2 to 3.6 cents a mile, while commutation fares in the Chicago district are only 10 per cent greater than they were in the early part of 1918. The Illinois Central System will ask for a 20 per cent increase in commutation fares. An increase in commutation fares of 20 per cent above the present levels would make them only 32 per cent greater than in the early part of 1918, as compared with an increase of 80 per cent in standard passenger fares elsewhere in the state.

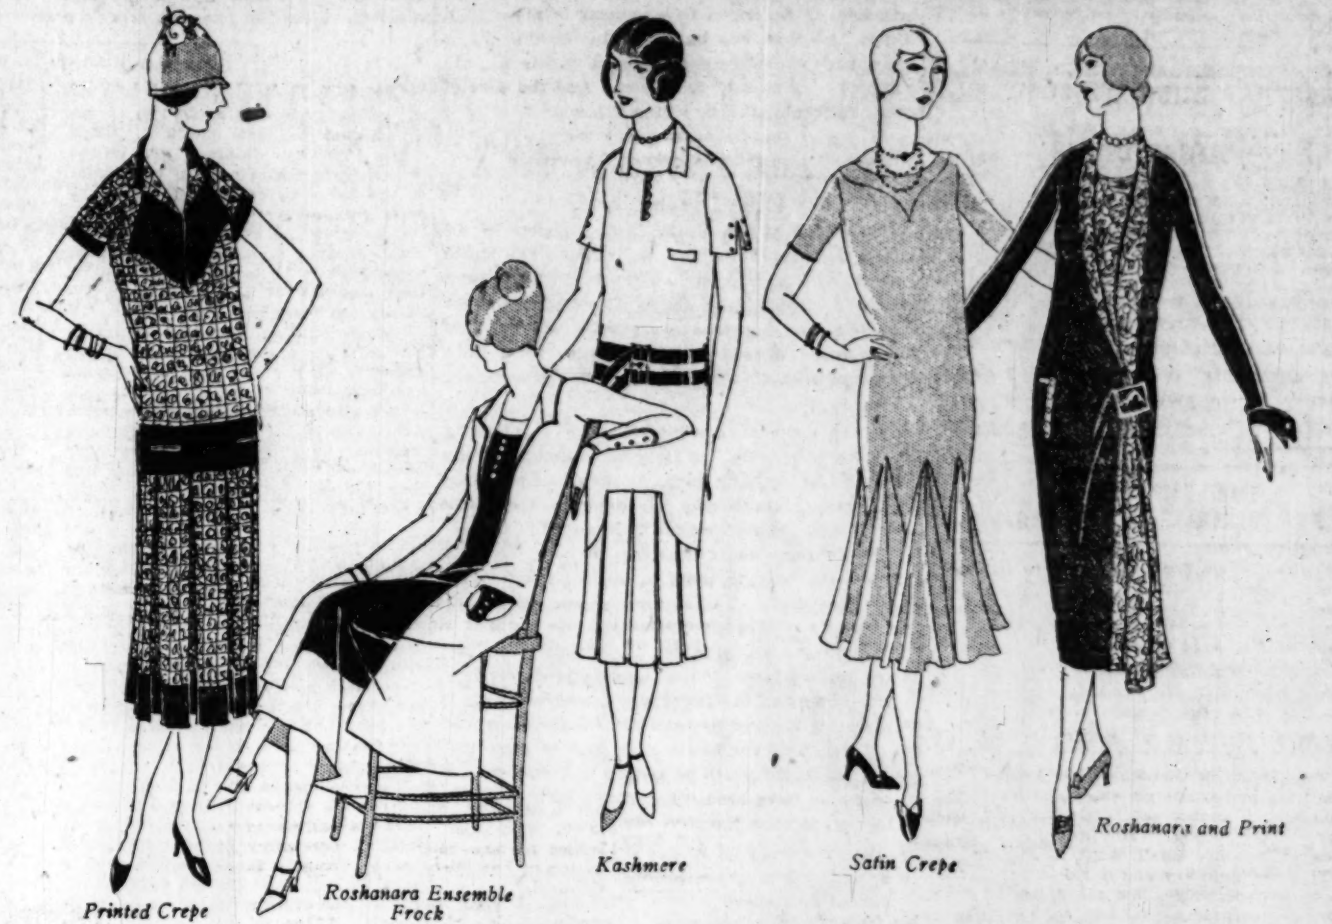

Justice of Proposed Increase Apparent

WE believe that the great majority of the patrons of our suburban service are so fair-minded that they would not object to a small increase in our suburban fares if they were made acquainted with the facts in regard to the losses being incurred in their service. We present our case to the people of Chicago, and especially to the people who have been and are being benefited by the operation of our suburban service, because we have confidence in their spirit of fairness and justice. We earnestly request their co-operation with us in an effort to remedy a situation that has gone too long unremedied.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.
C. H. MARKHAM,
President Illinois Central System.

ALLIED CHARGES TRIVIAL, GERMAN NOTE DECLARES

Insists Entente Has No

BY GEORGE SELDES.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
Copyright, 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.
BERLIN, Jan. 6.—Germany's reply to the allied note announcing their decision not to evacuate the Cologne area was handed the allied ambassadors this evening. The allied chargé d'affaires has failed to disarm the demobilized, in accordance with the Versailles treaty. The German note contains chiefly a demand, that specific and detailed information be sent to Germany immediately. This Tribune learns from diplomatic sources. In asking for specific charges and full details, the note suggests that Germany view that the allies had no right to halt the evacuation on account of trivial infractions, if there were any infractions at all.

Leaders Will Confer.
Foreign Minister Stresemann tomorrow will hold a conference of the party leaders on the note. The recharging foreign affairs committee also will be called together. A reply to the demand for specifications is expected next week for action by the reichstag, which will meet tomorrow to elect a president. It seems impossible to form a cabinet pending the Cologne crisis. It is likely that Germany will face the crisis without a government, inasmuch as no politician is big enough to form a cabinet which will face the disagreeable task of fighting the allies on the Cologne affair as a prelude to the political drama. The nationalists are ready to overthrow any government leaving them out, yet the nationalists would refuse the job of forming a government as long as allied troops remain in Cologne.

Attack Herr Stresemann.
According to nationalist views, as expressed by Count Westarp, Germany's revenge for what is regarded as the allied breach of treaties lies in a commercial line. Talk of a tariff war against France and England, which of course already are coming from Paris, is delighting the nationalists. Germany believes it holds important pawns in its hands in both the coal monopoly, which affects the French steel industry, and in tariffs on Alsace and Lorraine foods, the customs duties on which were returned on Jan. 1 when the Versailles treaty clause expired.

The reichstag lobby today discussed Herr Stresemann's efforts to build a cabinet including the Nationalists. Herr Stresemann's enemies openly declared that the monarchists financed the People's party in the recent election campaign and Herr Stresemann for once is trying to keep a pre-election promise by taking them into the government as repayment.

U. S. Jogs Italy's Memory on Debt of $2,000,000,000

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
Copyright, 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.
PARIS, Jan. 6.—With the British debt funded and negotiations in sight on the French obligations, the United States will turn to Italy for a settlement.
Private and unofficial hints have been made by Washington to the Rome government, indicating that action toward disposing of the war debt will be acceptable to the administration. THE TRIBUNE is informed.
Both Great Britain and France have indicated their approval of Washington's action in this quarter, and it is expected to start the ball rolling for a general discussion of a solution of the debt problem by the three principal European powers concerned—Great Britain, France, and Italy.

France to Dun Italy.
Following the custom of passing the buck, it is expected that France during the week will throw out feelers concerning Italy's debt to the French government to the Italian finance minister. De Stefani, representing Premier Mussolini at the conference on the division of Dawes plan payments, Italy owes France 1,000,000,000 gold francs ($200,000,000). Italy owes the United States $2,000,000,000 and Great Britain $400,000,000 ($80,000,000).
Once the three powers begin negotiations toward a settlement of the interrelated and American debts it will give them a strong lever on Moscow, and just when pourparlers with the Soviets for commercial and economic treaties and financial help are coming up, Russia owes the United States $250,000,000, Great Britain $500,000 ($100,000,000), and France 4,000,000,000 gold francs ($800,000,000).

At the Genoa conference, when the allies politely intimated to Russia that it must pay its debts, M. Tshibeterin ardently replied that none of them intended to pay their obligations, so why pick on the bolsheviks. With the various creditors and debtors arranging to pay off among themselves, this Red argument vanishes.

Finance Chiefs Gather.
PARIS, Jan. 6.—[By the Associated Press.]—Delegations from twelve of the allied and associated nations are in Paris tonight preparing to reopen tomorrow some of the thorny discussions that have grown out of the peace conference which began here about six years ago.
Frank B. Kellogg, American ambassador to Great Britain, who with Ambassador Herrick and James A. Logan Jr., United States observer on the reparations commission, constitutes the American delegates to the conference, arrived here late today. Mr. Kellogg will confer with Ambassador Herrick and Mr. Logan tomorrow morning before the conference meets in the clock room at the foreign office.

Winston Churchill, the British chancellor of the exchequer, was another arrival. It is fairly well understood in the best informed circles that Mr. Churchill will submit to M. Clementel, French finance minister, a proposal for a full allied conference on war debts to be held in Brussels in March. This suggestion has not yet been brought to the attention of the American delegation officially, but in any event the Americans will take no interest in any talk concerning debts.

Elmer Tunes In Early to Hear 'Martha'

He Wants the Titles in English.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The announcement of "Martha" in English on the Lyon & Healy 2:30 W-G-N program for yesterday afternoon was too tempting to miss. It was a most charming half hour, due to the romantic charm of the soloists' voices.

Leon Jones, a high tenor, sang in purest English in the purest tones, and like a real romantic Romeo, Louise Winter, with a springtime, resonant soprano voice, could be understood in the solos and duets, but if her words in "The Last Rose of Summer" were lost, her molten musical tones would have soothed a criminal's heart.

Without entering into the question of singing in a foreign language over the radio, titles of compositions and songs should be given in English whenever possible.

"HELLO THERE!" cried Announcer Ryan, continuing the program. But I don't like "Hello there" in my ears. That boy's left sleeve is full of whistles, bells, trappings, static, and what not. We hear enough of that sort of thing on Monday night.

WMAQ was on the air from 7 to 9 with "Alice in Wonderland," the Whiteman trio and other entertainers in a special program for the "kiddies" whom Santa forgot, but whom Jack Frost never forgets.

We can add another name to our small list of basses—John A. McFarlane, whose 8:30 o'clock recital at W-G-N must have made many of us marvel at the richness and the profound depth of tone of this exceptional voice among the many voices of lighter timbre.

At the same hour a fine concert was in progress at KYW, but the announcer saw fit to hold up the program to read a telegram from a doctor who had a new set and wanted one of the artists to sing a number for his own special benefit. Thus ended that program.

Turned to WEHH at 9:20, hearing the Chicago Association of Credit Men's quartet sing two numbers very creditably. The next number was a solo by a woman who sang for some one in Ohio. Thus ended that program.

COOLIDGE SIGNS PRISON TERM FOR LIEUTENANT

Notification that President Coolidge has signed the warrant committing him to five years in Leavenworth prison for stealing $15,000 army funds was given to Lieut. Howard Forner at the Fort Sheridan hospital yesterday.

ELSIE SWEETIN STARTS CAREER ANEW IN PRISON

May Be Laundress for 35 Years.

Elsie Sweetin last night lost her identity and became female prisoner No. 9521 when the heavy steel door of a cell in Joliet state penitentiary closed behind her.

The woman whom the sentencing judge termed as "cruel in slaying as her paramour," wept as she leaned against the shoulder of Sheriff Grant Holcomb's wife as she started on the thirty-five years of her term. Today she will begin work as a prison laundress, her vocation from now on.

All day on the journey from Mount Vernon she had smiled, but when Holcomb and his wife said good-by at the cell door Mrs. Sweetin seemed to realize for the first time that it wasn't a holiday trip. The smile fled and she sobbed.

"I'm innocent. I'll be out soon, for the truth becomes known," she maintained to the last minute. "My greatest crime was in putting trust in Hight. I loved my husband and we were happy. I didn't know what I was doing with Hight until it was too late."

While she was being booked on the prison records she was asked if she had any jewelry.

"None," not even a wedding ring," she said. "I never wanted one. The only jewelry I ever wanted was a wrist watch, and"—with a wistful smile—"I suppose I'll never get one now."

This morning she will tramp into the great dining hall with the other women—young flapper handits and grayed women of the underworld—and eat her first penitentiary breakfast. Then to the laundry, where for thirty-five years—if her sentence is completed—she will toil.

SHERIFF GOES ALONE FOR TWO CHICAGO GUNMEN

Sheriff McKlesick of Douglas county, Colorado, went into the Jarr Canyon mountains last night, lone handed, to try to bring out two Chicago gunmen, Louis Alterie, pal of the late Dion O'Banion, and Frank Gusenberg.

Word had reached the Chicago police that the two men, wanted here for their part in a battle with police at the Northern Lights cafe several months ago that resulted in the slaying of John Phillips, are living on a ranch in the Colorado mountains.

It is said Alterie bought the ranch under the name of "Louis Varian." Sheriff McKlesick refused aid and said he did not fear the Chicago gangsters.

HE WORKS LATE, SO UNITES MANY, JUDGE DECLARES

Performance of nearly 500 marriages in one year has nothing at all to do with any marriage mill, according to Municipal Judge Asa G. Adams, who established that record last year.

The judge yesterday offered the opinion that his long hours in the courtroom were largely responsible.

"You see how late I'm working to-night?" he asked at 5:30 p. m. "Well, just make a tour of the rest of the city hall and see how many other judges are just finishing work. I do the marrying for every one when every one else has quit work for the day."

"They know, down in the marriage license office, that I usually can be reached up here, and most young couples want to be married just as soon as they get their license."

"And my fees aren't sending me on the road to affluence."

"I'll admit that grooms have been known to contribute as much as $5 for my work, but I've married an awful lot free of charge. And as for runners—that's bunk. I've got a lot of friends who know I like to marry people, but I have yet to pay any one for bringing couples to me."

"I suggest it would be a good thing if Sheriff Hoffman became interested in something of more consequence."

WIDOW ATTACKS GOMPERS' WILL; CHARGES FRAUD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(Special.)—Declaring that the new will of her husband, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, had been obtained through fraud, coercion, and undue influence, Mrs. Gertrude A. Gompers today filed an action in the Probate court attacking the validity of the document. The widow, who under the terms of the will now being probated was virtually disinherited as far as it was possible under the law, asks the court to refuse probate of the later will and to admit an earlier will, made in 1921, to probate. The earlier will, which gave the widow the bulk of the $30,000 estate, was made shortly after the marriage of the aged labor president to the present Mrs. Gompers.

It is Mrs. Gompers' charge that the will disinheriting her was the result of undue influence exerted either by her stepson, Samuel J. Gompers, or persons unknown.

NO CODDLING OF FARMERS, THEY TELL UNCLE SAM

Co-op Men Point Flaws in Proposed Laws.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(Special.)—Leaders of the cooperative marketing movement who represent eight states today declared themselves vigorously against governmental coddling of the farmer.

"All that we want is to be let alone," said Walton Petzet, secretary of the National Council of the Farmers' Cooperative Marketing Association. "To continue to be legislated," he added, "is all we ask."

Aaron Saprio, another leader, and member of the executive committee of the national council, voiced "unalterable opposition" to any legislation that will put the government into the business of buying and selling farm products on a commercial basis.

Cal's Bill Dangerous.

The proposal of the Capper-Williams bill to unite producers and speculators into one organization, Mr. Saprio declared to be "one of the most dangerous things we have to contend with."

Predictions of the elements in the cooperative movement which are led by Mr. Saprio are that the provisions of the Williams bill "would put every perishable commodity cooperative marketing association out of business and imperil every other organization."

In short, all that the dominating men in the national council want the government to take up now in cooperation is the introduction of a senate resolution calling for an investigation of alleged unfair tactics by the American Tobacco company (British) against the Tobacco Growers' Cooperative association.

Attack Ford Statement.

The cooperatives are also going after Henry Ford, Mr. Saprio, the leading lawyer of the movement, has made a formal demand upon Ford and certain members of the Ford staff for retraction of statements in Ford's magazine, the Dearborn Independent, tending to show the existence of a conspiracy on the part of an international group of Jews to exploit American agriculture.

PRIESTS IN ROAD GANGS STIR KIEV PEASANT REVOLT

Russians Slay Local Communists.

By DONALD DAY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.) RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 6.—Peasant uprisings have occurred in the Kiev and Kharkov districts, according to Moscow papers, which report that peasants have burned government buildings at several centers and have murdered local communist officials.

The Moscow Isvestia asserts that guerrillas in both cities have the revolt under control, the military authorities having arrested more than 900 peasants who are accused of plotting against the government.

Hide Fortune in Beliefs.

According to the correspondent of the Isvestia the revolt followed the arrest by the Cheka at Kiev of thirty monks at the Pecherski monastery after spies had discovered a collection of treasures worth 800,000 gold rubles ($400,000), which the priests had hidden in the bell tower of the monastery.

The correspondent says the Cheka obtained 360 large diamonds, a large number of chalices, jewel studded icons and images and also a large collection of gold and silver plate used in festival services.

Murder Local Communists.

For attempting to evade the soviet government's decree of 1921 confiscating church treasures the Pecherski monks were sentenced to long terms of imprisonment at hard labor. The strong monks among those sentenced recently were attached to a squad of prisoners repairing roads in the vicinity of Kiev. Peasants en route to the markets seeing the caulked figures working on the roads under armed Chekists went home and murdered the local communists, and burned the government buildings.

MOTHER HEARS PLEA TO SAVE BERNARD GRANT

A gray-haired mother with tears in her eyes last night listened to a lawyer make appeal by telephone to Gov. Small at Springfield to save her son, Bernard Grant, from the gallows.

Gov. Small told the attorney, Jay J. McCarthy, he would give a definite answer tomorrow afternoon.

The governor was asked for commutation of sentence to life imprisonment or at least for a further reprieve. Grant is due to be hanged Jan. 16.

ITALY SUBDUED BY FASCIST LASH OF MUSSOLINI

Premier Ends 48 Hour Cleanup of Foes.

By JOHN CLAYTON.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.)

ROME, Jan. 6 (via Berlin).—Rome was quiet today. Premier Mussolini appeared to have accomplished his promise that within forty-eight hours he would subdue the "subversive forces" in Italy.

With a tremendous display of military force, Fascist demonstrations, raids on 555 private homes, suppression of 200 or more opposition political clubs, many arrests and the elimination of the liberal members from his cabinet, Sig. Mussolini was declared tonight to be firmly in the saddle again and holding all of Italy under a stiff rein.

Following a cabinet meeting this afternoon, a semi-official statement announced that parliament would reassemble next Monday. The opposition parties are badly split up, while the Fascists are once more firmly united.

Reports received here from correspondents of the United News service tell of the spread of general unrest and rioting throughout Italy. Although a few of the opposition newspapers still are operating, none dare publish news as received throughout Italy.

Reports from Venice state that the police used bayonets in suppressing Fascist attacks against opposition organizations. The police in Milan, Carrara, Ferrara, and Florence are suppressing outbreaks with the utmost energy. Numerous other towns are complaining that the police are only active when attacks are made against the Fascists. House searches continue throughout the country. More anti-Fascist clubs, papers, and organizations are being closed and closely guarded.

The Vatican is doing its utmost to help get the political situation solved, because the unrest is greatly affecting the holy year pilgrimage to Rome. Thousands are cutting short their visits, while many others' fear of attacks on railroad trains is reducing travel.

Tribune Man Grilled.

Camillo Cianfarra, Tus Chicago Tribune's local correspondent in Rome, who was arrested yesterday, was released after being subjected to a severe third degree lasting nine hours in an attempt to force him to divulge the sources of information of his dispatch detailing the Caesar Rossi memorandum, which implicated Premier Mussolini in the Matteotti murder scandal.

<Curious facts about a Beau Brummel's wardrobe> in Liberty~out today~at all newsstands

For madam and mamselle, there is one style arbiter, one mentor in dress etiquette—Paris!

But who is he who says to the beau, the man-about-town: "Gentlemen, here's the mode in hat, sack and boot?" Is he the creator who has fashioned the garment, or is he the splendid figure who actually sponsors the new mode?

Whether or not you believe that "clothes make the man," here's an extraordinary story on the how—and the who—of modes for men. "His Sartorial Highness," by A. T. Gallico, is a distinct bit of news for you, and enjoyment as well.

And it's somewhat of a revelation. No less a royal chifforobe than the Prince of Wales is opened—drawer and door—for your examination. It is an astonishingly complete compendium of what to wear, and when—a sort of advance showing of conceits in male attire.

Read it. It shares honors with an impressive list of seventeen other features, two of which are especially mentioned below. Don't miss this exceptional issue of Liberty, out today, at all newsstands.

2 other "big hits"

A new, vibrant serial . . .
about love in Palm Beach . . . By ELMER DAVIS

"White Pants Willie"—just as gay and frivolous as his title—eases into the paradise of swaying palms, swaggering swains with and without check books, and promptly sets the stage for a startling romance. The eerie light of the moon; soft, spice-laden zephyrs; a satin-cheeked creature troubled of heart; high adventure; piracy, and an uninterrupted stream of daring escapades, make this new serial by Elmer Davis, easily one of his best and, also, one of the story "finds" of the year.

A great short story . . .
By the famous novelist . . . HAROLD MACGRATH

You've read many a yarn about the dark side of life—weird episodes on the fringe of civilization—and finished breathless, exhilarated. But Harold MacGrath, in "Two Faces," has dug up a new one. He gives you a rare slice of life: an entrancing Asiatic setting; a man-horror from whom children scampered in frantic fear; an echo of a war-wonder—and then cuts you loose, stunned, amazed, in wonderment! You will join all of us who read it and say: "It's a great story; one that comes along only once in a blue moon."

Many Are Asking Whether to Tell or Not to Tell

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Please answer me one straight question. How much ought I to tell the man I am engaged to marry about what I did before I knew him?" a girl asked me.

"I have been engaged twice before, and I have done lots of foolish things. Not anything really bad, but a lot I am heartily ashamed of, and that I'd give anything to undo. Shall I make a clean breast of everything? I'd like to. I'd feel a lot easier in my own mind if I did, I know that."

Yes, but how about the man? Would he feel better if knowing all of your follies, for being given pictures, vivid pictures, of things you have done and situations you have been in before you knew him? Wouldn't your telling him merely shift the burden of what you have done on his shoulders? One makes so many foolish mistakes in life, and telling one's fiancé or husband doesn't help any. It merely gives him some added worries, and perhaps fears, in addition to his own.

When I say don't tell any more of your weaknesses and faults to the one you love than you can help I am not speaking of any real moral wrong committed. That is an entirely different matter, with many deeper issues involved, and there is much to be said on both sides.

I am speaking only of the smaller frailties every one is heir to. When a man marries he usually has the girl on a pedestal. She is his ideal, endowed with all the virtues his imagination can picture. The longer a girl keeps herself on this pedestal the more fortunate is she. The closer she keeps to the ideal in her husband's heart the happier is she.

Everyday life carries with it a certain tendency to tear down ideals and illusions. Voluntarily doing or saying anything, or confessing to anything, except where some question of honor is at stake, which will aid the process, is doubly foolish. A man finds out a woman's frailties quickly enough without one's telling him about them beforehand. And if she has conquered them, grown beyond a weakness for flirting, or cheating in small things, or other similar failings, better forgotten than remembered, the wisest course for her to pursue is to drop past mis-

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Don't Pursue Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 17 and met a fellow about six months ago. He told me he was going away for a week. Since then I haven't seen him. The other day I met him at the theater and he didn't recognize me. Would you please tell me how I can get acquainted again, as I love him too dearly."

Worried, I shouldn't attempt to make any effort to become better acquainted with the young man, dear, for he has shown quite conclusively that he does not wish it. It is well to keep in mind, dear, that all young men like to be the pursuers and not feel they are pursued.

Prove Your Words.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a boy of 18 and have been going out with a girl one year my senior. About a week ago I told her she was nice and she got sore at me. Is it right for a fellow to tell that to a girl?"

A. B. C.

It could be for that reason that the young lady is sore, son, for they all like to be told how nice they are. Of course, you must suit your actions to your words or she won't put any reliance in them. A. B. C. It isn't enough to say things; you must prove them to be a fact.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—"What," some one asked me the other day, "are the fewest pairs of shoes I can get along with, to be properly shod at all times, and what are they?" To which I answered that it all depends upon what and how many were the occasions he was likely to run into. If he expected to do any mountain climbing, for instance, he would need a stout pair of boots that he wouldn't need if he were going to

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Swedish Tea Ring

Most of the recipes for Swedish tea ring give ingredients for making something like a coffee cake; that is, to an ordinary bread recipe will be added about half a cup of sugar, an egg, and from four to eight tablespoons of butter. A little more than three cups of flour to one cup of liquid will be needed in this case.

But the two little girls, representing the girls' club of Minnesota, used just a common bread dough, rolling it out to one-fourth of an inch in thickness, buttering it, sprinkling it with a mixture of sugar and cinnamon—4 to 1—rolling it, etc. The most interesting item in the performance was the fact that the girl who in two seconds transferred the straight roll from the kneading board to a baking pan, formed it into a perfect circle on the way, a deft piece of work!

And here was an important point in this business, as in making Parker house rolls from the same dough, rolling it then one-half inch thick. The dough risen in the bowl was not kneaded in the slightest. Kneading makes dough elastic and then it cannot easily be rolled out in a sheet.

Emphasis was placed on the fact that the roll should be a tight one, because the butter and sugar cooked faster than the dough and would all cook out through the numerous cuts made in the circle of dough with the scissors. I have never seen that statement in any recipe.

By the way, my files show me that as far back as March, 1919, Minnesota led in home made bread making—led the nation—taking the home away from others because of the great amount of home made bread made, and especially by the club girls.

It would be particularly beneficial in your case, Helen. Eat sparingly of potatoes, as the starch in potatoes is the hardest of all starches to digest.

Paths of Debutantes

Lead but to the for This Year

A society maiden's path is a narrow one, and she must tread it with care. She must be prepared to face the criticism of the public, and she must be able to stand up to the scrutiny of the press. She must be able to do all of these things, and she must be able to do them with a smile and a grace.

for This Year's Crop

A society maiden's path from the carefree status of a gay young bud to that of the young married woman with more serious obligations and cares is of varying length. Letitia Hines, one of the prettiest of this season's unusually attractive crop of buds, has barely discarded the pink and white nosegay she carried on the eve of her debut ball at the Blackstone when she begins making preparations for donning a bride's virgin white veil and flowers. Her wedding to Howell Hoffman, son of the late Cardinal Mundelein, will be celebrated at the home of Mrs. Francis C. Kelley, who will say mass. Tita Schipa of the Chicago Civic Opera company will sing.

Several of the debutantes, Miss Suzanne Ota, Miss Edwena Love, and Miss Dorothy Curtis, are to have their first opportunity to serve as bridesmaids in Miss Hines' brilliant retinue, in which Mrs. Champ Curry will be matron of honor and Miss Eunice Howard, the bridegroom's sister, maid of honor. Miss Florence Notz, Miss Anne Schuler, Miss Sylvia Mack, Miss Ruth Patterson of Cleveland, O., Miss Eleanor Davies of Washington, D. C., and Miss Elizabeth Telfer of Pittsburgh are also to be bridesmaids.

Mr. Howard, who was a classmate of Mr. Hines, will be best man, and Charles H. Hines, Delano W. Ladd of Plainfield, N. J.; Charles Clapp of Greenwich, Conn.; Noel Armstrong of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Peter J. McHugh of Chicago; Edwin T. Lamb Jr. of Norfolk, Va.; Nathan G. Osborne of Chicago, and a group of young men from the Howard's home town, Edgar M. Thacker Jr., James P. Thacker, Samuel Markham, Raymond Ohmer, John K. McInire, Frank T. Huffman Jr., and Willard N. Kirkpatrick will under. Although the betrothal of the young couple was not announced until Miss Hines' debut, society notes its head knowledge, having heard from the young couple that the match has been settled for a year, and was only kept secret that Miss Hines might finish school, go abroad, and make her debut before approaching matrimony.

Work is now going on in earnest for the Actors' Equity ball to take place on Saturday evening, Jan. 24, at the First regiment armory. The general committee in charge is to meet tomorrow at 4:30 o'clock in Evan Evans' studio; on Friday Mrs. Jacques Pate will give a tea at the Art club for her box committee, and the following Thursday Fletcher Durbin and Stephen Ford will hold a meeting of their floor committee at the University club.

Mrs. Charles S. Peterson will give a tea on Friday afternoon at her residence, 1450 Lake Shore drive, for the annual meeting of the Illinois Women's Athletic club. Plans are to be made for the club's formal dinner dance, to be given in February under the auspices of the social committee, of which Mrs. Peterson is chairman. Mrs. Clyde L. Day of 5537 Hyde Park boulevard will give a luncheon a week from today for Miss Mary Anna Beck, with afterwards taking her guests to a matinee.

The annual Grace ball of the Art Students' league will be given at the Tribune ballroom on Wednesday evening, Feb. 11. A committee in charge of the advance sale of boxes is headed by Miss Dorothy Lamont, Miss Mary Tilt, and Miss Helen Ticken. Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Goodman, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan are among those who have taken boxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeWitt Sumway of Lake Forest are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Dec. 21 at the Michael Reese hospital. The Noble Brandon Judahs of Lake Forest are to move on Saturday into their apartment in the exclusive "2450 Lakeview" building, in which the Charles Edwards Browns, the Howard Van Doren Shaws, the John Butchmans, and the Chauncey McCormicks all have dwellings made to their individual and respective fancies. Mr. and Mrs. Judah will go to Miami in February, leaving their twins here, and will be back in Lake Forest about April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Hodgkins of 229 Lake Shore drive will depart tomorrow for Palm Beach, where they will be until March or April winds blow. Press Hoffmann has returned to his books at Yale.

The Frank O. Lowden family will leave the Drake tomorrow for their Sinsinip farm at Oregon, Ill., where they will see them on the Chicago matches until Feb. 10, when the wedding of Frances to John B. Drake Jr. is to take place at the Fourth Presbyterian church. A reception at the Fortnightly will follow the service.

NEW YORK SOCIETY
New York, Jan. 6.—(Special.)—Everybody who has received one of the Junior league's attractive invitations for its annual entertainment to be given on January 15 at the Hotel Astor, has been curious to know why the word "faria" had been substituted for the former title "festa." The change was due to the crossword puzzle craze, which has become so much a part of daily existence that a simple word like "faria" was not considered quite up to date, with the result that a frantic search was started for a five letter synonym of Spanish origin.

Here's How Chicago
Spent $21,000,000 in Social Welfare Work

Chicago spends $20,000,000 yearly in public and private welfare work. The following is the first of a series of brief articles intended to show the work accomplished by some of the agencies during the year, and how the fifty millions will be expended in 1925.

Mr. Average Citizen's reflections on the matter of taxes are apt to be accompanied by harsh comments on the conduct of governmental affairs. Therefore it may not be uninteresting to know of the disposal of $21,000,000 devoted to public social welfare work in Chicago last year.

Summing up approximately this amount were expended in the following apportionment: City, $5,039,000; county, $4,211,000; state, $2,853,000; compensations and pensions, $3,249,000.

The city's quota was expended in protecting its citizens through the department of health, with its subordinate divisions of child welfare, communicable diseases, food inspection, sanitation, and allied departments. Contagious disease, isolation, emergency hospitals, and the Municipal Tuberculosis sanatorium were also financed through this department.

City schools for blind, deaf, crippled and backward children were maintained, and recreational facilities provided in parks and playgrounds.

Pensions to employees and dependents and contributions to certain private infants' hospitals complete the list of principal expenditures from the fund. Cook county has charge of institutional care of the dependent and aged, supports the county hospital, juvenile detention home and the county jail and the recreational facilities of the forest preserves.

Put to Confusion.
My most embarrassing moment occurred the other day when I walked up to our bookkeeper with a statement of the day's business and said: "This is the poorest specimen of a 2 I have ever seen—it looks just like a 1 to me!" "It is a seven," he replied. "Oh!" I said, discomfited, and edged away. M. N. K.

EXCESSIVE SUPPLY

Excessive supplies gave buyers all the advantage in the hog market yesterday and quotations were slashed another 25¢ after an unevenly lower opening. Offerings first two days of the week totaled 163,500, the largest two successive days on record for January, comparing with 107,581 a year ago. Narrower shipping demand added depression to the trade, which was in a demoralized condition on lighter weights late in the day. The latter slumped 5¢ in most instances. A load of fancy 242 lb butchers topped at $10.95 early, with practical top after the start stopping at $10.85. Price range widened further, with average cost lowest since Dec. 27, at $10.20. The market closed in a top-heavy condition, with 23,000 left in the pens and 50,000 expected for today.

CATTLE

General trade in cattle was active at steady to strong prices, with some of the best yearlings showing a slight advance. Receipts at 16,000 were fairly liberal for Tuesday, but quality was only ordinary. Best 803 lb yearlings sold at $12.75 with $12.00 net highest for 1,151 lb average. Steers averaging 1,322 lbs made $11.50 and 1,425 lbs $11.25. Few sold above $10.50, with 1,151 lb steers at that price. Some averaging 1,475 lbs sold at $9.25, with fair to good 550 lb 1400 lb kinds at $8.00 to $9.00. Butcher stock, calves and feeder steers were without change.

TOP LAMBS, $11.85.

Further sharp advances of fully 50¢/75¢ in values forced top killing lambs to $11.50, highest in more than a week and $1.00 above the close of last week. Evening receipts, which were more than 60

WHEAT GAINS AS SELLERS TRY TO REINSTATE LINES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation ran its course in the grain markets at the opening and an effort later to reinstate sold out lines, especially in wheat, found a lack of pressure, and with reports of around 1,000,000 bu cash wheat sold by Kansas City handlers, mainly to the Gulf for export, and also a betterment in the domestic milling demand, an advance of 3/4¢ to 1¢ was made at the close.

Local traders were active on the buying side of corn, and there was a change in sentiment noted in some quarters. The close was 1/2¢ higher with May 1.27 1/2, July 1.23 1/2, and September 1.27 1/2. Oats gained 1/4¢ to 1/2¢.

Settlement Changes in Wheat.

There was materially less pressure on the wheat market than for some time. Offerings on the breaks have been readily absorbed for several days and while the trade ignored the reports of a large export business on Monday the claims of further buying caused some of the sold out bulls to start to reinstate lines. Fair selling developed at 1 1/2¢ for May and on every cent advance over that figure. Technically the market was in a much stronger position and the rally was due.

Less Pressure on Corn.

While there was little change in the character of the news affecting corn and oats there was a noticeable letup in the free selling by commission houses, and with wheat strength took but little buying to advance values. Country offerings of corn to arrive were limited and the spot basis little changed. Buying of May oats here against sales at Minneapolis and at Minneapolis helped to strengthen the local market. A little export business was put through at the seaboard in oats to the continent, while Germany was a moderate buyer of barley.

Foreigners After Cash Rye.

European demand for cash rye showed considerable improvement with sales at the seaboard estimated at 600,000 to 700,000 bu. Germany, Finland, Norway, and Denmark being the buyers. Efforts were made by exporters to get offers of rye taken in here on December contracts and shipped to Baltimore, but the grain was not for sale. Houses with seaboard connections were good buyers of futures and made the advance.

Liquidation was on in hard at the start

with stop order selling, but the market quickly reversed its action, and rallied sharply, closing about the top with prices unchanged to 7/8¢ higher. Ribs were the higher and bellies 20¢ to 25¢ higher. Smaller packers were the best buyers. Deliveries on January contracts were 150,000 lbs. Prices follow:

Cash sales were 200,000 bu with German hard winter wheat, 100,000 bu with Danish 150,000 bu and Norway 200,000 bu. Germany bought a little barley, and the continent took a few small lots of No. 2 white clipped oats.

Chicago handlers sold 17,000 bu wheat, 81,000 bu corn, 50,000 bu oats, and 5,000 bu barley, with sales of 200,000 bu oats made up to store. There were 221,000 bu No. 2 hard winter wheat, cash and January, sold in store.

Your Securities May Have Changed!

JANUARY is an opportune time to take inventory of your securities. And January, 1925 is particularly opportune—in view of the rising market the last few months.

Business efficiency requires periodical inventories of stock on hand, but a security once purchased is often never considered again—it lies tucked away somewhere in a safety deposit box. And even in the case of experienced investors, inventories of estates at death show an enormous number of worthless securities.

At the present time, many securities have risen substantially in value, leaving interest return low. For instance, if you have a security bearing a coupon rate of 6% for which you paid $1000 and which is now selling at $1130, you have an actual $130 which is not earning a penny. Although the coupon rate of interest is 6%, the actual return on the sales value of the investment of $1130 is but 4.40%. Accordingly you should turn this paper profit into a cash profit and secure 6% interest on the entire $1130.

Other securities of yours may have suddenly increased in price, but such increase may be due entirely to speculation. This presents an immediate opportunity to cash in on such profits. Still other securities are in a fundamentally sound condition but last minute information on them may be desired.

Our Statistical Department is fully equipped to serve you in the analysis of your securities. Confidential information will be supplied you without cost or obligation. Simply list your securities or questions, and address
Dept. 370.

For your convenience, our Chicago office will remain open Thursday and Friday, January 8th and 9th, and Monday, January 12th, until 8 p. m., and Saturday, January 10th, until 5 p. m.

ZENITH SELECTS MT. PROSPECT FOR NEW WJAZ

BY AL CHASE.

After testing out fifty communities within a radius of 150 miles of Chicago, the Zenith Radio Corporation yesterday decided that Mount Prospect, up in the northwest part of Cook county, on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, was the best location for its contemplated "high power station"—WJAZ.

A 260,000 site at the southwest corner of Central and Prospect road was bought from George Busse for an undisclosed consideration. On this work will start as soon as possible on the necessary towers, to be at least 200 feet high. Zenith officials say details haven't been determined as yet.

"It should be ready in three or four months," said S. J. March. "We tried out half a hundred towns on the portable broadcasting station on a truck before we decided on Mt. Prospect."

Nary a "dye" in this story. This is probably the first radio story ever written which hasn't a word ending with "dye." In it—the reason is that the real estate editor grabs his jazz out of the air with a one tuber and doesn't know the difference between a genuine tuner and an eight ohm rheostat and wouldn't know a micromicromic if he met one.

Consequently we had to turn to Stephen Gloriot, radio editor for help. Translated into simple English, we broadened the information that WJAZ (at one time on the Edgewater Beach hotel) will have a wave length assigned to it later on.

As it's outside of Chicago, it'll not have to divide its air schedule with some other station. It'll have a Chicago studio, of course; location to be announced later, we presume, by Mr. Gloriot's department.

Leland Garner sold. Harry Mettel has sold the nineteen apartments at the southeast corner of Leland and Campbell, lot 70x125, to Albert and Morris Port for a reported $105,000, subject to $57,000, through J. Olsen, broker.

Benjamin Rosenberg and George S. Lurie of Rosenberg & Lurie, real estate, have sold the three story store and hotel building at the southeast corner of Clark and Illinois, lot 70x35, for a reported $100,000. Roderick & Co., H. O. Stone & Co., and Mrs. C. F. Aaron were brokers. The buyers state they intend remodeling at expiration of lease.

SAFETY Is The Result Of Casualties

Accidents to machine operators in factories resulted in the adoption of guards and safety appliances. Fires long ago made the need for fire prevention and fire insurance apparent. Similarly, bad debt losses are ever emphasizing the vital necessity of

Credit Insurance

After more than thirty years of continuous educational work, the American Company has succeeded in establishing the principle that credit insurance is as vital in modern business as fire insurance.

The American Credit-Indemnity Co. writes more credit insurance than any other company in the world. The American Credit-Indemnity Co. writes credit insurance exclusively.
